WORLD'S LARGEST PEZ-DISPENSER SCULPTURE TAKES SHAPE IN RICHMOND

18 JUL, 2016

When Aberdeen Centre set out to build an enormous statue entirely out of PEZ dispensers, it set its sights high.

How high? Well, its re-creation of London's iconic Big Ben clock tower made out of those beloved candy holders is an official Guinness World Record holder.

The world's largest PEZ-dispenser sculpture measures seven feet tall and five feet wide. The record-smashing artwork is built out of thousands of red, pink, blue, and yellow dispensers with emoji tops.

"An adjudicator from the Guinness World Records flew in from New York City on June 30th to measure and inspect our Big Ben PEZ-dispenser sculpture," says Joey Kwan, Aberdeen Centre director of promotions and public relations. "We got it! It is so exciting."

That's not the only jaw-dropping sight at Aberdeen Centre right now. A team of artistic volunteers used millions of colourful PEZ candies to create a 27-foot replica of the Tower Bridge and a nine-foot-high sculpture of the London Eye, the giant Ferris wheel on the South Bank of the River Thames.

These eye-popping pieces are on display as part of London Calling, Aberdeen Centre's 2016 ground-breaking summer exhibition.

Running through to September 5th at the Central Atrium, London Calling brings the best of the Brits to British Columbia.

See the splendor of the Crown Jewels, exquisite pieces of Royal Regalia dating back to the 16th century. By British law, the original jewels of the British monarchs cannot leave England, but this museum-quality collection of more than 40 replicas includes the jewelled state sword, the golden ampulla (a vessel of fine gold in the shape of an eagle that contains the holy oil used to anoint the sovereign), the Armills (gold bracelets meant to symbolize wisdom and sincerity worn by Her Majesty the Queen), royal spectres, and British Imperial crowns. Also on display are the costumes of dutiful 'Beefeaters,' the resplendent guards who keep a watchful eye on these treasures.

Brought to you by the city's only "shoppertainment" destination – the same mall that mounted Jurassic Alive! and creatures from the Ice Age – London Calling also features a London-themed Lane for visitors to stroll down, with paintings, regalia, and fun facts that perhaps even native Brits don't know. It's like a trip to the British capital without having to leave home.

Look too for Sherlock Bear of Baker Street—a huge, fluffy, nine-foot-tall teddy bear all dressed up in custom-made Sherlock Holmes attire, ready to star in selfies and portraits.

City of Richmond dignitaries joined Aberdeen Centre to celebrate the Guinness World Records title achievement for the world's largest PEZ dispenser sculpture.

Step back in time when PEZ girls were the candy's official brand ambassadors. Retro-style PEZ girls will be at the exhibition to give visitors a sample of the world-famous candy. Snap a photo with a PEZ girl and receive a roll of candies on the spot (while quantities last).

And Instagrammers take note: you can snap to win your very own giant PEZ dispenser. Until September 5th, take a photo anywhere at the London Calling exhibition and upload it to Instagram #aberdeenlondoncalling for a chance to win one of eight giant PEZ dispensers (one entry per Instagram account).

You can also visit the display of five enormous six-foot tall PEZ dispensers all topped with popular emoji characters—except for one. Personalize one of these life-size dispensers with your own face by placing your head in the open spot, mimicking your favourite emoji and sharing your 'What's my mood?' photo with your friends and family.

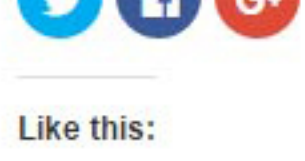

Situated in the heart of Richmond with ample free parking and direct access to the Canada Line, Aberdeen Centre is the city's only "shoppertainment" destination. Within its 380,000 square feet is the only state-of-the-art musical fountain show, as well as 160 shops, from Asian herbs to culinary ingredients to the latest fashions. It is home to many food, fashion, and lifestyle brands from Japan, Korea, and other parts of Asia that can't be found anywhere else in the Lower Mainland. The Daiso department store is here, and so are flagship locations of popular Korean cosmetics and skincare companies like for Nature's Republic, ARITAUM, and Tony Moly. Then there are eight full-service restaurants and an 800-seat food court.

Visitors to Aberdeen Centre during London Calling exhibition will also be able to collect four iconic London Calling souvenir key chains – double-decker bus, London taxi cab, red telephone booth, and Pillar mail box – each one free with a combined purchase of $75 or more from any mall merchant. Those over 18 can enter the Treat Yourself Like a Queen Lucky Draw for a chance to win their very own OSIM UDivva Massage chair, valued at $3,580.

It's jolly good fun at Aberdeen Centre all summer long. Come and visit or find out more at <http://ift.tt/1wFWPwe>
